Kazakh National Medical University is a university in Almaty, Kazakhstan. It is the no.1 medical institute in all of Kazakhstan. Many of Kazakhstan's leading physicians are affiliated with the university. It is dedicated to S.D. Asfendiyarov who was the first rector when the university was established in 1931. In 2001, the government classified it as a "national" university. There are more than 11000 students, PhD students study at KazNMU, and there are more than 1500 faculty members working at KazNMU, including more than 200 doctors of science, 130 professors, more than 500 candidates of science and 15-laureates of State prizes.

In 1930 by RSFSR SP council's decision the first institute in Kazakhstan was founded. The first rector was S.D. Asfendiyarov, a graduating-student of Leningrad Military Medical Academy. For great services and people's public health development the medical institute was awarded the Order of the Red Banner of Labour in April of 1981. In 2001 Kazakh State medical university named after S.D. Asfendiyarov was awarded the high national status of the university.
